1       AN ACT Relating to a Pacific Northwest maritime national heritage 2 area feasibility assessment; creating new sections; and making an 3 appropriation.

4 BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON:

5       NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. SHORT TITLE. This act may be cited as the 6 "Pacific Northwest maritime national heritage area feasibility 7 assessment act."

8       NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. FINDINGS. The legislature finds that:

9       (1) The natural and cultural geography of western Washington is 10 shaped by the Pacific Ocean, the straits, and the inland waterways of 11 Puget Sound;

12       (2) For hundreds of years, native peoples relied upon these 13 interconnected saltwater passages for sustenance and for mobility
14 within the region and beyond;

15       (3) The first Euro-American immigrants to the area continued to 16 depend almost exclusively upon these waterways for the movement of 17 people and goods;

1 (4) The early industries of the region, including logging, mining, 2 and agriculture, utilized the waterways for commerce even after the 3 advent of railroads and overland roads;

4 (5) All manner of vessels were designed, built, and maintained on 5 the shores of western Washington, resulting in the proliferation of 6 marine and boat building industries;

7 (6) Fisheries, commercial water transport, and recreational boating
8 became essential to the economic health of the region;

9 (7) Maritime skills and traditions flourished in the form of sail
10 making, knot work, boat building, woodworking, and maritime art, music, 11 and storytelling;

12 (8) This maritime culture has left a tangible legacy on the 13 landscape of western Washington in the form of boatyards, canneries, 14 coastguard stations, dry docks, ferry landings, lighthouses, marinas, 15 naval stations, piers, shipyards, wharfs, and all manner of vessels;

16 (9) In today's global economy our traditional maritime culture is 17 increasingly endangered by the loss of jobs in the maritime industries, 18 the decline of family fishing, the erosion of maritime skills,
19 waterfront development pressures, the high cost of historic vessel 20 preservation, and other factors;

21 (10) Over seventy-five organizations and public agencies in western 22 Washington currently focus on some aspect of preserving and 23 interpreting our maritime heritage;

24 (11) Over one hundred historic sites, museums, and attractions
25 relating to maritime heritage currently exist in western Washington;

26 (12) The communities of Gig Harbor, Grays Harbor, Port Townsend,
27 Seattle, Tacoma, and others are working tirelessly to create 28 significant regional maritime heritage centers that collect and steward 29 important maritime resources, offer high quality educational 30 programming, and promote heritage tourism;

31 (13) These communities wish to collaborate with other interested 32 organizations, agencies, tribes, and communities in positioning our 33 collective maritime heritage as a premier regional attraction and 34 distinctive cultural amenity; and

35 (14) National heritage areas designated by the United States
36 congress provide a mechanism to protect, enhance, celebrate, and 37 promote such assemblages of thematically related natural, cultural, 38 historic, and scenic resources through local partnerships.
